

Being a West Virginia Extension Master Gardener

Along with the camaraderie, West Virginia Extension Master Gardeners share their knowledge at a variety of public venues. Volunteer activities can change from year to year and may include:

- Public gardens, demonstration gardens
- School gardens
- Garden festivals
- Plant sales
- Workshops & seminars
- Presentations
- Plant clinics
- Display booths

Is Master Gardening for You?

- Would I love to learn more about gardening?
- Would I like to participate in a practical and intensive training program?
- Would I love to share my knowledge and engage with my community?
- Do I have the time?

How To Apply

Complete and send us the form on this brochure or give us a call. We will send you the next course application when it is available.

Questions? Contact
Berkeley County Extension Service
400 W Stephen St, Suite 302
Martinsburg, WV 25401
Telephone (304) 264-1936
Website:
extension.wvu.edu/berkeley/master-gardeners

Programs and activities offered by the West Virginia University Extension Service are available to all persons without regard to race, color, sex, disability, religion, age, veteran status, political beliefs, sexual orientation, national origin and marital or family status.

For sign language interpretation, personal FM systems, disability assistance, please indicate same on the bottom of the registration form. At least 72 hours notice is required.

Grow with the West Virginia Extension Master Gardener Program

Berkeley-Jefferson Extension
Master Gardeners Association
Program Advisor, Mary Beth Bennett

Complete this form and return it to the Extension Master Gardener Program coordinator, WVU Berkeley County Extension Office, 400 W Stephen St. Suite 302, Martinsburg WV

Yes, I wish to share my knowledge of gardening and learn more about gardening in the process. Please add my name to your list to receive an application form for the next West Virginia Extension Master Gardener training program.

Name _____

Address _____

City, State, Zip _____

Day Phone _____ Email Address _____

West Virginia University Extension Master Gardener

This title is given to those who graduate from the program's comprehensive training course, and complete the 40-hour volunteer internship.

Training

Faculty members, WVU Extension staff, Master Gardeners, and local experts teach plant science & home horticulture including:

- soil and plant nutrition,
- plant physiology,
- pests and diseases,
- turf management,
- pruning,
- plant propagation,
- composting,
- pesticide safety,
- fruit and vegetable production

Classes in the annual several week training course meet one afternoon a week, generally beginning in late summer. The tuition fee includes the Master Gardener Training manual.

Volunteer Internship

Following graduation, student interns are expected to complete 40 hours of volunteer service within the first year. The local Extension Master Gardener Association and the Program Advisor will advise and guide interns throughout the year to ensure a rewarding, effective experience.

Certification

When internship requirements are fully satisfied, interns are certified as West Virginia Extension Master Gardeners (EMGs) and receive a certificate and name badge.

Remaining Certified

Each year, the EMG must complete 10 hours of approved continuing education and 20 hours of volunteer service (minimum) to remain certified.

Advanced Certification

Experienced Extension Master Gardeners who seek new challenges may have the opportunity for advanced level certification. This may require specialized instruction in an approved area of study and an independent project demonstrating understanding of the subject area and utilizing leadership elements.